

Kennedy's Infamous Quote

Alexander S. Peak

28 September 2006

I Hate it when people quote Kennedy by saying, “Ask what you can do for your country”—as though a person’s Life is only valuable insofar as it can be exploited by the state, as though a person’s life is not an end within itself, but an expedient to the will of the state. It amounts to the subjugation of Individuality, of Liberty, and of Life itself.